Free Up Space Quickly.

Surplus equipment takes up valuable space at your facility or at expensive contract warehouses. If the equipment is idle, you can take advantage of EquipNet's consignment, as well as remarketing options simultaneously. These options will clear up space in your facility and recover funds spend on your past equipment investments.

Reduce Risk.

When your plans include a strict deadline for clearing your facility, surplus equipment can get in the way, which may lead to delays and missed opportunities for recovering revenue.

With EquipNet's global options for storing your equipment on consignment, we enable you to pursue high-return options since your project's time constraints and facility space are no longer a concern.

More Economical.

EquipNet's Global Consignment solutions require you to pay only for the space you use each month, with no long-term commitments required.

Often times, contract warehouses will charge you a fixed rate each month, regardless of the amount of space your equipment is utilizing. EquipNet's expert warehouse team will ensure that you will only pay for the space you use, and that amount will automatically decrease as you move items out of the consignment warehouse.
